Humungus Fungus Fest

Aug. 3-5

This fungus-filled fete in northern Michigan honors the largest mushroom in the world—the underground 'shroom weighs 11 tons and is thought to be more than 1,500 years old.

Hope Watermelon Festival

Aug. 9-11

Featuring three days of fruity fun, Hope's 36th annual Watermelon Festival draws crowds of some 50,000 visitors to the southwest corner of Arkansas.

Cream Cheese Festival

Sept. 15

Now in its eighth year, this cheesy celebration in Lowville, N.Y., gives travelers a chance to sample a piece of the nation's largest cheesecake.

Batfest

Aug. 25

Now in its eighth year, this festival celebrates the 2 million Mexican free tail bats that take up seasonal residence beneath the Congress Street Bridge in Austin, Texas, forming the world's largest urban bat colony.

Great Texas Mosquito Festival

July 26-28

Clute, Texas, 60 miles south of Houston, will be abuzz with excitement at this 32nd annual event.

Mattoon Bagelfest

July 19-21

There's a "hole" lot of fun in store at the 27th annual Bagelfest in Mattoon, Ill., the self-declared "Bagel Capital of the World," thanks to the Lender's bagel factory there.

Slugburger Festival

July 12-14

Now in its 25th year, this fest pays tribute to the Corinth, Miss., culinary delight. But the deep-fried patty formed of beef and soy meal may be an acquired taste.

Wausau Possum Festival

Aug. 4

Now in its 43rd year, this annual Florida event pays homage to the modest marsupial's role as a food source during the Great Depression.

Hollerin' Contest

June 16

In honor of keeping the "almost-lost-art" of hollerin' alive, this 44th annual sonorous soiree draws crowds in the thousands to Spivey's Corner, N.C., some 50 miles south of Raleigh.

World Chicken Festival

Sept. 27-30

Home to the very first restaurant established by Kentucky Fried Chicken founder Colonel Harland Sanders, Laurel County throws this annual eggs-travaganza, featuring the world's largest stainless steel skillet. With a diameter of 10 feet, 6 inches, the hefty pan can cook 600 chicken quarters at once.

What happens in Iceland ...

Stephen Markley

redeye@tribune.com

Hey, who's in Iceland right now? Just me? OK, then I'll explain the entire country in this column.

It started like this: My friends Bojo and Trin decided to quit their jobs and hop around places that are not America for a while. I decided to more or less empty my bank account to travel with them on the first leg of their journey to this strange, magical world called Iceland.

Honestly, I've never been to a place I've had so much difficulty describing both aesthetically and socially. I totally get it now: how when you talk to people who've been here they just go, "Oh, my God. Yes. Iceland. You have to go."

During the summer there are essentially 20-22 hours of daylight, which acts on your body like a permanent Four Loko fed into you via neck IV. You feel like a cokehead until exhaustion comes crashing down about every third day. I'm not exaggerating when I say I slept maybe 10 of my first 72 hours in country. This is OK, though, because there is a hell of a lot to do/see/experience/survive.

We started in Reykjavik, rented a car and have just been driving around the island ever since—staying in hostels in weird little towns and working out a system in which Trin and I haggle about where to go, how much time to spend in each place and which mordantly attractive blond women we will strike up conversations with. Bojo drives. ("Shut up, Bojo," we tell him. "Daddy and Daddy 2 are talking.")

Therefore, I'm filing this column from another unpronounceable town on the Eastern coast that combines the spatial majesty of "Lord of the Rings" vistas with the creepy 800-people vibe of "Twin Peaks."

We spent the previous night in Akureyri, the second-largest city in the country, which has fewer people than Lakeview. We managed to find only three bars, one of which was called the Post Office (for no discernible reason).

The only real advice I can pass on from Akureyri is that if you're ever in the midst of dated American hip-hop, grimy machined fog and eye-zapping green lasers and you have the choice of talking to a mildewing Icelandic womanizer in his mid-50s who just demonstrated the foulest pick-up line perhaps in the entire English language or a mother of four who's making it a little too clear she wants to take you back to her bed in a small fishing village an hour away, then ... well, actually I don't remember what happened with all that, but I do know I couldn't properly digest soup in the morning.

Unfortunately, I've failed here because Iceland is stunning in a way that requires more than a column-space of adjectives. You begin the day watching miniature horses with funny haircuts galloping across a golden plain and end it on top of a mountain snapping pictures of frozen lakes through the clouds.

Less than halfway through the trip, I'm already a total convert who will speak of this country in blunt, wide-eyed, period-ended words upon my return. Daddy 2 digs this place. REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR STEPHEN MARKLEY IS THE AUTHOR OF "PUBLISH THIS BOOK." REDEYECHICAGO.COM/ MARKLEY

Emiliano Vazquez, 5 months, is the first patient to be transported Saturday from Children's Memorial Hospital to the new downtown hospital, Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital. ADEL LURIE/TRIBUNE

Safe and sound

Children's weekend move goes smoothly

Chicago Tribune

Just after 6 a.m. Saturday, 5-month-old Emiliano Vazquez became the first of 126 patients to leave Children's Memorial Hospital in Lincoln Park for the hospital's new downtown facility, his sleepy eyes barely open as he was wheeled into an ambulance on a stretcher loaded with medical equipment and teddy bears.

Just a few hours later, the boy—who is dependent on a ventilator while he is treated for a muscle deficiency—already had settled into a private room at the new Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital in Streeterville, touching his mother's hand as he wiggled in a specially designed crib and sucked on a pacifier.

"Great things are going to happen here," said his mother, Patricia Ocampo. "You can feel it. You can sense it."

After about 14 hours of moving all the patients safely to the new hospital, Children's Memorial Hospital officially closed at 8 p.m., hospital officials said.

Emiliano's new room on the 14th floor of the new facility was quite an improvement from the room he shared with at least four other infants in the neonatal intensive care unit at the old facility. Instead of being jammed into a corner surrounded by medical equipment, the boy and his parents had plenty of room all to themselves, enjoying the natural light flooding in through a huge window with a stunning view of the city's skyscrapers.

"We love it," said Emiliano's father, Sergio Vazquez. "I think it was a long time coming for Chicago."

Both the old and new hospitals were buzzing with activity Saturday. More than two dozen ambulances were lined up outside the Lincoln Park hospital at 5 a.m., ready to pick up patients from two bays and take them about 3 miles south to the new facility.

The difference between the hospitals is striking. The new building, a gleaming, 23-story tower sheathed in glass, is filled with spacious lobbies, brightly colored walls and picture windows with views of the city and Lake Michigan.

"I don't feel like a rat stuck in a cage anymore," said Oksana Podilchuk, whose 1-year-old daughter, Naia, is recovering from a bone marrow transplant in a room looking north over Lake Michigan. "This is nice. It has a resort-type feel to it. ... The fact that we're near the water, it plays a huge role."

Cops probe downtown muggings

Chicago Tribune

Chicago police on Sunday were looking into at least three separate downtown muggings carried out by separate groups of attackers, as the city gears up for its busy summer festival season.

The attacks occurred among hundreds of tourists and music lovers who emptied out of Grant Park after the Chicago Blues Festival.

One incident involved up to 10 attackers—seven youths and three adults—who beat and robbed a man in the 500 block of North State Street about 9:50 p.m., police said.

The victim, a male tourist in his 40s, was being treated at Northwestern Memorial Hospital with a broken jaw, police said.

About 10:20 p.m., a couple was accosted by a group at the Lake/State Red Line station in the 100 block of North State Street, near the Chicago Theatre, police said.

In that attack, the couple were robbed and the man beaten by an unknown number of attackers, who fled. The male victim also was taken to Northwestern with non-serious injuries.

Police also received a report of a third attack near the Gold Coast, but investigators hadn't determined the exact location or time.

EXPRESS LINES

- A motorist trying to pass another vehicle veered into oncoming traffic and crashed head-on into another car, killing its 59-year-old driver during a five-vehicle wreck early Sunday in Kilbourn Park.
- A man died in a vehicle left stranded on the Kennedy Expressway near the West Loop, authorities said Sunday. It was unclear what led to the death.
- Two people were killed and at least 21 wounded late Saturday night into Sunday morning in shootings across the city, several of which involved two or more people shot at once, according to police. TRIBUNE

3 killed, 3 wounded at pool party shooting near Auburn

Desmonte Leonard

4 AUBURN, Ala. Two former Auburn University football players and another man were shot dead and three people including a current player were wounded when an argument at a pool party at an off-campus apartment complex escalated, police said Sunday.

Two of those shot to death, Edward Christian and Ladarious Phillips, both 20, played for Auburn previously. A current team member, Eric Mack, 20, was wounded and admitted to East Alabama Medical Center. His condition was not released.

The third fatality was Demario Pitts, 20, police said.

Auburn Police Chief Tommy Dawson identified the suspect as 22-year-old Desmonte Leonard of Montgomery, Ala., and said he was being sought on three counts of capital murder.

Leonard fled the scene in a white Chevrolet Caprice with two other men, who were considered "persons of interest," Dawson said, declining to identify them. The vehicle was found abandoned in nearby Macon County.

U.S. Marshals and the FBI were aiding the investigation, Dawson said at a news conference.

Police received a call reporting shots fired at 10:03 p.m. Saturday and Christian was pronounced dead at the scene. Two men died at the hospital.

WHERE WERE THEY FROM?

The three athletes were members of Auburn's 2010 recruiting class. Phillips was from Roanoke, Ala., and Christian was from Valdosta, Ga. Mack is from St. Matthews, S.C.

A fifth victim was treated and released. The sixth was airlifted to the University of Alabama-Birmingham Hospital with a gunshot wound to the head, Dawson said. He was in critical condition Sunday.

"This is a tragic day for the Auburn family," Mayor Bill Ham Jr. said. "It's just beyond my capacity to understand. It's senseless."

5 Mortar rounds strike Baghdad square

At least six people were killed and 38 others wounded when two mortar rounds struck a square filled with Shi'ite pilgrims in Iraq's capital Sunday, police and hospital sources said.

6 Iran: Nuke talks off rails

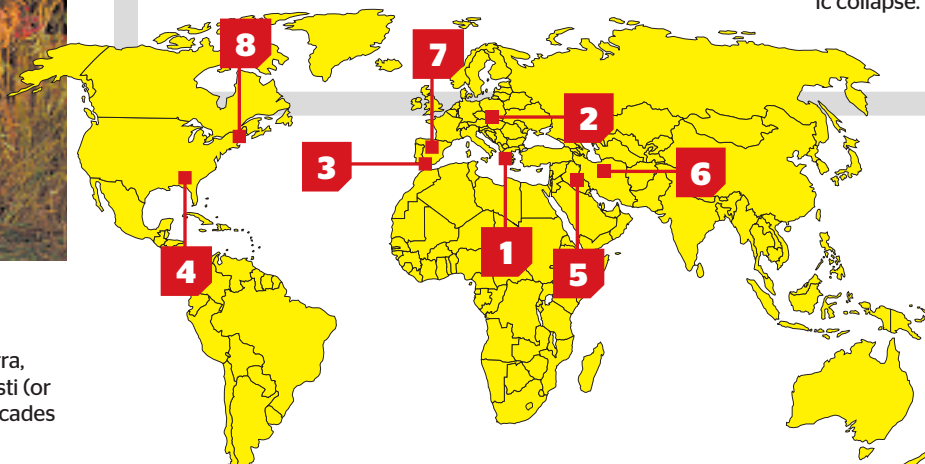

Iran's deputy negotiator said world powers were unprepared for the next round of talks over the Islamic Republic's disputed nuclear program and had failed to honor agreements reached in previous negotiations, Iranian media said Sunday.

7 Spain takes bailout loan

A day after the bailout request he vowed would never come, Spanish Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy said a loan package from Europe worth up to $125 billion as a "victory for the euro," and cast the deal to rescue Spain's banks as part of his efforts to stave off economic collapse.

8 Obama comment in crosshairs

President Obama's comment Friday that the "private sector is doing fine" dominated TV political debates Sunday, with surrogates trying to minimize the impact of his remarks and opponents seeking to take maximum advantage, despite Obama's retraction of the comment.

Officiating Jay Cutler's wedding

Think of all the trouble putting Cutler's wedding to Kristin Cavallari on national TV would save: no need for a guest list! After that, the Bears quarterback can focus on getting to the Super Bowl. And, you know, being a husband and dad.

Beer pong with Patrick Kane

Oops, sorry about that, Blackhawks management. We're not trying to get Kaner in trouble, honest. We'll make sure he uses water. Or Gatorade, just to be safe.

Three-legged race with Derrick Rose

It's the perfect combination of aggressive rehab and protecting his injured left knee. At least, that's what we're telling ourselves.

Staring contest with Robin Ventura

Instead of the bombastic tirades Ozzie Guillen uses to get his point across, Ventura specializes in the icy glare. This calls for a three-way stare-off with Conan and Andy Richter. Eye drops for the winner!

HUMOR US

BRING ON CONAN O'BRIEN'S IDEAL CHICAGO SPORTS GUESTS

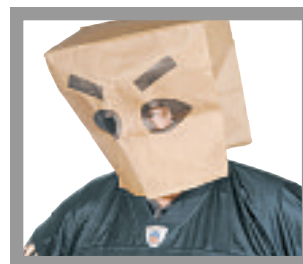

RedEye

We figure Conan O'Brien will have a great run when his TBS show hits Chicago this week. You can't go wrong with Adam Sandler, Andy Samberg, Chicago's own Kids These Days, etc. However, we have ideas on how he can make Team Coco's visit epic—and maybe a bit productive, civically speaking.

Hair-off with Jeff Samardzija

The Cubs pitcher has a wild mane flowing from his cap these days. But can it best Conan's classic red coif? We picture giant costumed versions in a fight to the (near) death.

Counseling for Bag Boy

We have tried to cheer this guy up, with no luck. If Coco and his bag of comedic tricks aren't up to the job, we're not sure who is.

 Editor's note: RedEye wanted to feature Bears running back Matt Forte on this list, but the contract negotiations broke down.

WATCH New Jersey vs. Los Angeles

7 p.m. Monday, NBC

Los Angeles—a No. 8 seed, mind you—was cruising through the Stanley Cup finals until the Devils finally offered some resistance. Now, in Game 6, the pressure's REALLY on. Any team that eliminated the hated Vancouver Canucks and Phoenix Coyotes, as the Kings did, should get a Blackhawks fan's vote.

Starting Five

The to-do list for sports fans this week.

'Off Balance'

Available Tuesday

In this memoir, 1996 American gold medalist Dominique Moceanu "reveals the often dark underbelly of Olympic gymnastics as only an insider can." It's not the image the Olympics want to portray, especially with the London Games around the corner. But if it has a cathartic effect on the Moceanu family, good for them.

ATTEND

Sky vs. Seattle

7 p.m. Wednesday, Allstate Arena

Quick. Guess who the hottest team in Chicago is. If you said the Sky, pat yourself on the back. They're giving fans plenty of reasons to attend games, first and foremost being their five-game winning streak. Seattle's headed the other direction, having lost three in a row. Could be easy pickings for Epiphanny Prince, Sylvia Fowles and Co.

ATTEND

Cubs vs. Boston

Friday-Sunday, Wrigley Field

The team Theo Epstein helped make a powerhouse comes to the Friendly Confines for a three-game interleague series. Will the Cubs make it competitive? Will Epstein change his mind and want his old job back? Will anyone stick around long enough to find out?

ATTEND

Fire vs. New York

4 p.m. Sunday, Toyota Park

The Fire will try to climb above the .500 mark and reel in the Red Bulls, one of the teams they're chasing in the Eastern Conference, at the same time. It's never too early to start thinking about the playoff push, either.

1 What's behind Alfonso Soriano's recent home run binge?	Doesn't every man in Wrigleyville work to inflate his value this time of year?	He's like, totally juicing. XXXO, Sports Gossip Girl.	Dreaming of greener pastures as an AL designated hitter, perhaps?	I wouldn't call a few homers a binge. Two burritos on a Saturday night? Binge.	The half-empty bleachers are behind him. And those fans want him traded.
2 Interleague play is to the Cubs or White Sox as prairie grazing is to sharks—a missed opportunity to feed on the chum in their divisions.	... being indoors during a Chicago summer. Absolutely pointless, but necessary sometimes.	Wait ... the Cubs still play baseball? Not when I last checked.	... same as always: Cubs lose, Sox win.	... my remote changing the channel away from Chicago baseball.
3 Using six pitchers to throw a no-hitter is like assembling the Avengers to grill a tasty panini. Next time maybe just use one, huh, fellas?	... drinking six pitchers, then hitting on a girl you like. Hard to do, trust me.	... using parts from the cast of "Sex and the City" to make one attractive woman.	... uniting with two other all-stars to win a championship instead of being "the man" yourself.	... many RedEye readers enjoying six pitchers and ending the night with a one-hitter. Typical Friday.
4 How will thoroughbred I'll Have Another spend his retirement?	On a Segway, hopefully, or at least with a nice orthotic.	Getting laid. BTW, screw AARP, I'm trying to retire like that!	Getting to know more ladies in one summer than I will in my lifetime.	Gluing whatever he wants?	A stud looking for another drink. It's a crowded field.
5 What can you tell us about the European Championship tournament?	For some odd reason the Greek team is being asked to pay for everything in cash, up front.	It's a very presti-zzzzzzzzzzz (/k, it's an awesome tournament).	The guys who play it all date supermodels, like a legion of Tom Bradys.	Tight pants & body odor?	Nada. Nul. Die null. Nula.

IT HURTS TO LAUGH

The joke's on the Cubs if they keep up their painful losing ways

MINNEAPOLIS The Cubs' record for most losses in a season is 103, set in 1962 and tied in '66.

The 2012 Cubs are on pace to go down as the worst team in franchise history, with 40 losses in 59 games heading into Sunday's finale of a 10-game road trip.

That translates to 110 losses over a 162-game season.

The Cubs did grab a win Sunday, but it hasn't altered their course much.

"Hopefully you have to change the pace," manager Dale Sveum said with a laugh. "I mean, you laugh about it, but it's definitely quick if you get that label.

"On an everyday basis, yeah, everybody wants you to snap and yell and scream. ... And I've already done that once. So what are you going to do? ... It doesn't make any sense when the guys are busting their [bleep] and preparing every single day.

"But unfortunately, that mark is there after 60 games. That mark is definitely there, to, shoot, break a lot of records. Shoot, we've got to start winning some baseball games."

So when did Sveum snap?

"I've had my times," he said. "You guys don't have to know about all of them."

TRACY'S TREK

RedEye reporter Tracy Swartz continues her quest to visit all 30 major league ballparks before she turns 30.

PITTSBURGH 3, KANSAS CITY 2

Last fall I completed the triPitt crown—Steelers, Panthers and Penguins games in the same weekend—so I already knew what PNC Park looked like. I knew I wanted a view of the best part of Pittsburgh: the bridges and the boats that float past the park. It was a picturesque day, but I was disappointed that the Pirates fans weren't as boisterous as the Steelers fans. I am expecting to see passionate fans when I travel to California this week to visit six ballparks, from San Francisco to Phoenix, in seven days. Follow along on my Twitter, @tracyswartz.

LAUGHS: JUST FOR YOU

By Julia Borcherts | FOR REDEYE

It's time to set your comedy rayguns to "stun"—Tuesday through Sunday, the landmark TBS Just for Laughs Chicago festival returns for its fourth annual engagement featuring more than 100 local and national comedians in dozens of stand-up, sketch and specialty shows—many of which are taped for future broadcast—at 18 locations across Chicago, including new-to-the-fest venues UP Comedy Club, Laugh Factory and the Hideout. You can't see them all, and even if you could, a few acts—Aziz Ansari, John Oliver and "The Delocated Witness Protection Program Variety Show"—are sold out. So to help you navigate this behemoth of belly laughs, we've got a daily guide featuring our Top 10 national act highlights.

TUESDAY

The Conan Writers Live

8 p.m. at Laugh Factory, 3175 N. Broadway

Deon Cole returns to sweet home Chicago to host stand-up sets by fellow "Conan" humor scribes including Brian Kiley, Laurie Kilmartin, Andres du Bouchet, Josh Comers, Todd Levin, Jesse Popp and Jimmy Pardo.

WEDNESDAY

The Nerd Show

7 and 9 p.m. at UP Comedy Club, 230 W. North Ave.

Don your adhesive-taped glasses and leave your mom's basement for some geek-centric laughs with your own kind—Brian Posehn of "The Sarah Silverman Program," national touring comedians Brent Weinbach and Mike Lawrence, and your host, "You Made it Weird" podcaster Pete Holmes.

THURSDAY

An Evening with Kevin Smith

8 p.m. at The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St.

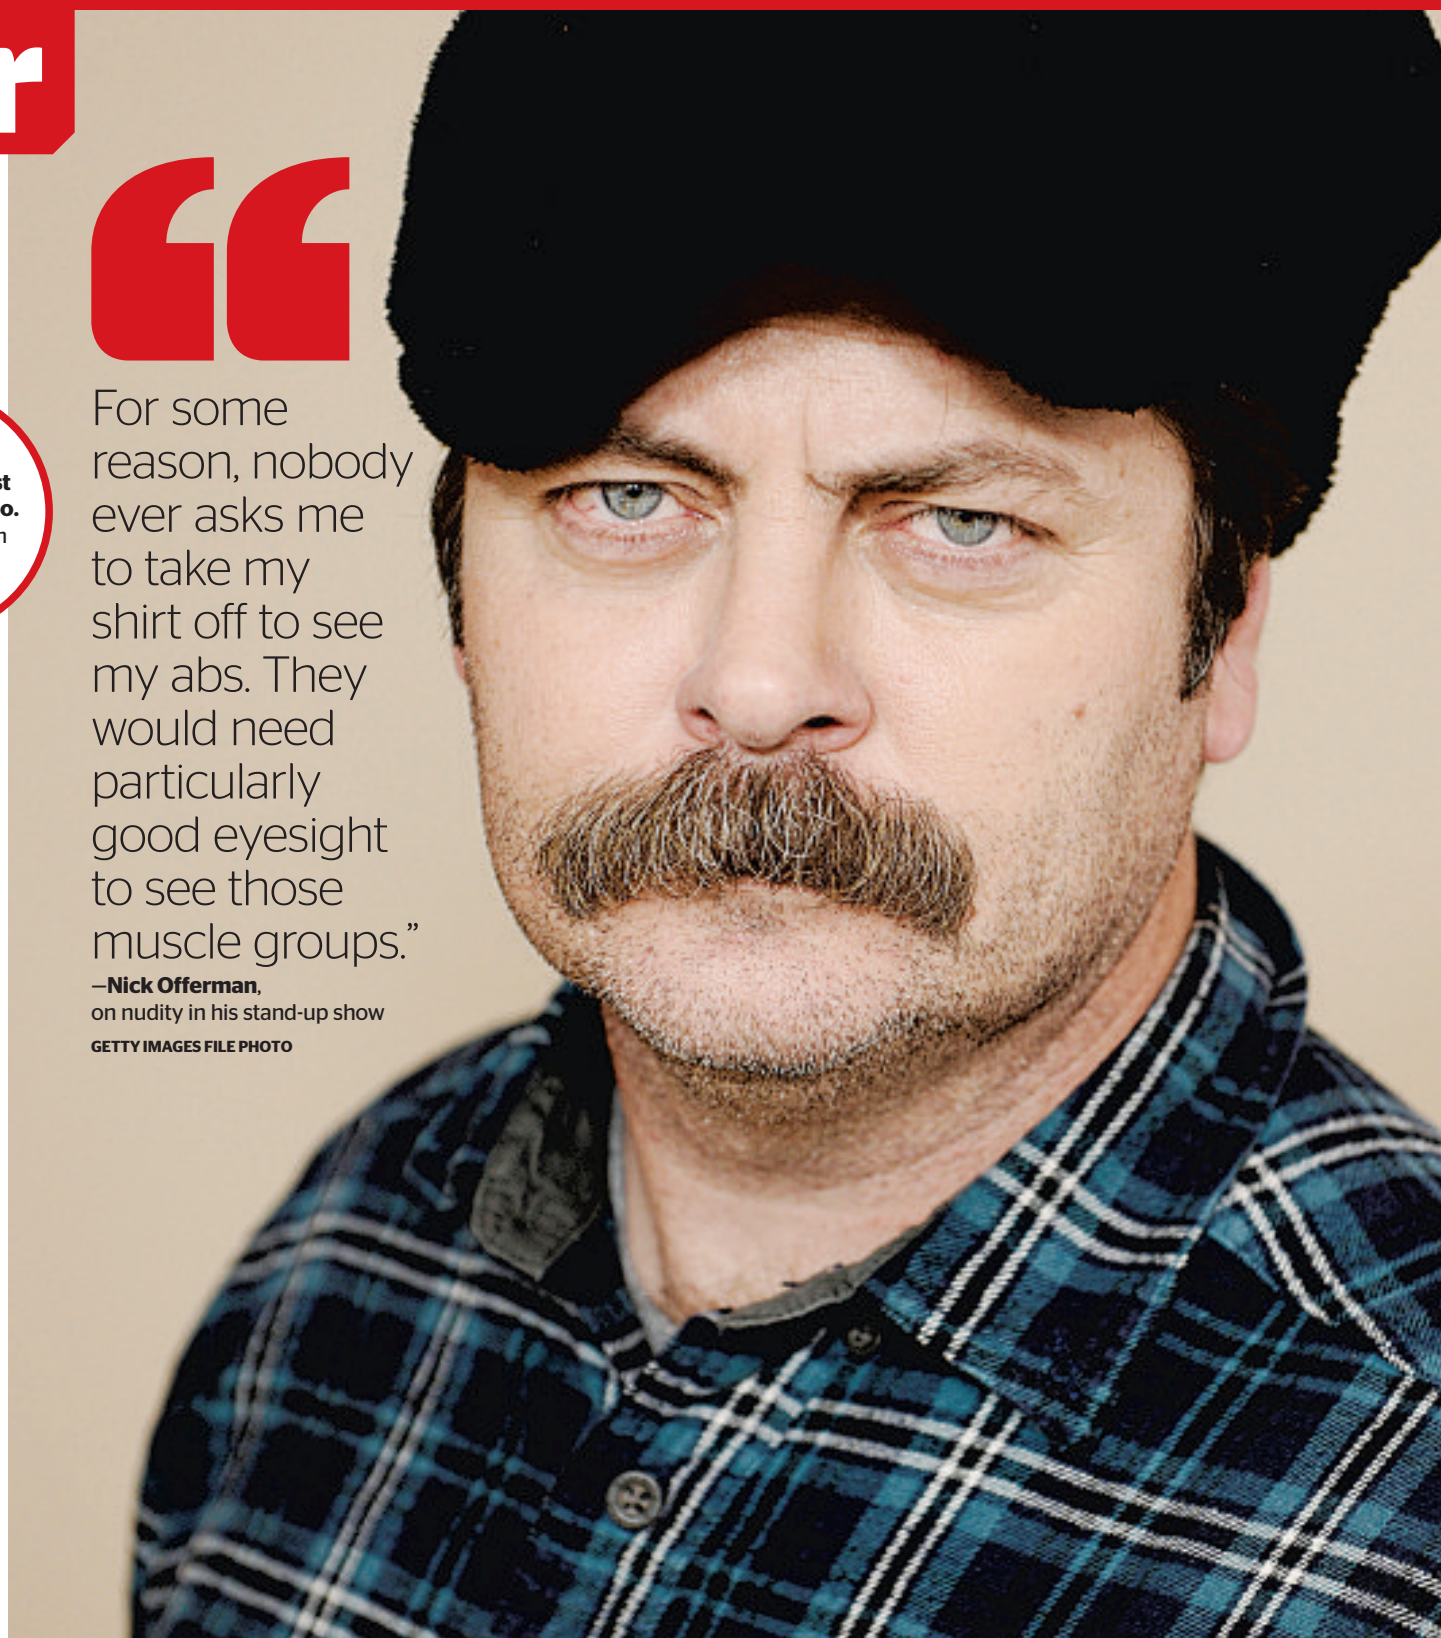

The indie filmmaker, actor, writer and producer who started it all with "Clerks" hosts a no-holds-barred interactive discussion in which your burning questions are the catalyst for his humorous insights and anecdotes.

For some reason, nobody ever asks me to take my shirt off to see my abs. They would need particularly good eyesight to see those muscle groups.”

—Nick Offerman,

Hannibal Buress: Still Sayin' Stuff

10 p.m. at Park West, 322 W. Armitage Ave.

One of Chicago's favorite sons—the former "SNL" and "30 Rock" writer named Best Club Comic at the 2012 Comedy Awards who's got four upcoming appearances on Comedy Central and Adult Swim programs—performs a benefit show for St. Paul's Lutheran School, where his mom teaches.

Patton Oswalt

10 p.m. at the Vic Theatre, 3145 N. Sheffield Ave.

Oswalt's 7:30 p.m. show is sold out, but you still can get tickets for some late-night laughs from the Grammy-nominated comic, whom you may know from "Bored to Death," "Flight of the Conchords" and the film "Young Adult," which nabbed him a Critics Choice Award nomination.

Nick & twisted

'Parks and Rec' star Nick Offerman is happy to show some 'fur' for your laughs

By Scott Bolohan | FOR REDEYE

Sometimes it's hard to tell the difference between Nick Offerman and his "Parks and Recreation" character Ron Swanson. Both talk in a slow, deep, deadpan manner and are unabashedly masculine. And, like Swanson, Offerman is an expert woodcraftsman and advocates a lifestyle centered on beer, meat and the outdoors.

But the real Offerman comes from the small farm town of Minooka, Ill., where he spent his hours working outside and playing sports. It's also where he came to realize his dream of acting, which led him to University of Illinois and finally Chicago, where he started Defiant Theater.

He makes his return to the Chicago stage this week for the TBS Just For Laughs comedy festival, where he'll perform his show named—what else?—"American Ham," which promises to offer laughs, his life philosophy and minor nudity. We caught up with Offerman ...

Is it a strange thing for you to be yourself on stage?

It is a strange new world. I've spent my career playing other characters, and it creates safety when you can hide behind someone else's writing and it gives you a great freedom to do anything because it's not Nick Offerman committing these acts. It's much more vulnerable when it's just me and the audience and I sink or swim when it's my material. It's been really interesting but really gratifying.

The promotional piece about the performance promises minor nudity.

For some reason, nobody ever asks me

NICK OFFERMAN: AMERICAN HAM

10 p.m. Saturday at the Vic Theatre, 3145 N. Sheffield Ave. (7:30 p.m. show is sold out.)

to take my shirt off to see my abs. They would need particularly good eyesight to see those muscle groups. I have a history of disrobing on stage. I'm not sure why people find it so amusing, but as long as they're laughing I'm happy to show some skin and some fur.

What was life like for you when you first came to Chicago?

We formed a company at the University of Illinois, Defiant Theater, and when we graduated in '93 we moved the company wholesale to Chicago and went into production. Really, right away I had a rich life in the theater. We never made much money. [Laughs.] But other than that, we lived like kings. We just had a great time. There wasn't enough time in the day to put on the plays we would do, and I would build scenery for other plays and then I started working at the Goodman and Steppenwolf. I was a fight choreographer. Year-round I had a full plate. There's nothing like the Chicago theater community for a young actor to cut their teeth.

There were so many people around the city who went on to have success. Did you realize there was so much talent there at the time?

I'm not surprised. I would have been surprised 15 years ago that we would get to the level that some of us have gotten to. Now that it's water under the bridge, it makes perfect sense to me. There's something about the Chicago theater community that breeds a pure artistic work ethic. It's common knowledge in Los Angeles and New York that actors from Chicago are a really dependable crop. I see it all around me, year in and year out, when they need somebody good in comedy and drama, they turn to Chicago theater.

In Chicago those Cubs-Sox commercials with Craig Robinson are huge. Do you think you'll see a Cubs World Series win someday?

Absolutely. If a pathetic bunch of rag-tag misfits like the Red Sox can do it, then the Cubs championship is just around the corner.

What would be your ideal day in Chicago?

I would get up early and go to the Heartland Cafe in Rogers Park. I would walk over to the lake and walk with a couple friends and my wife down the shore to Wrigleyville and make my way to the Cubby Bear and drop in for a Cubs game. It would be a day game, so then we could finish up, take a nap and recover from all the beer we drank and then head over to Steppenwolf and see what they were playing in their studio theater.

7 p.m. at the Hideout, 1354 W. Wabansia Ave.

Outspoken San Francisco comic W. Kamau Bell—who compares Tea Party events to casual Fridays at Ku Klux Klan rallies and has just landed a gig writing, producing and hosting an FX late-night series executive-produced by Chris Rock—gets in your face with his take on current events.

Sarah's Pro-Choice

7:30 and 10:30 p.m. at Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St.

The range doesn't get any broader than this: Sarah Silverman hosts sets by podcaster Marc Maron ("WTF with Marc Maron"), Kyle Dunnigan ("Reno 911!"), beatboxer-comic Reggie Watts (Comedy Central's "Reggie Watts: A Live in Central Park") and

"Chelsea Lately" regular Natasha Leggero.

SUNDAY

Vince Vaughn's Comedy Showcase

8 p.m. at The Chicago Theatre, 175 N. State St.

Native son Vaughn hits the stage to perform and host sets by comedians with whom he's developing new TV projects—Angelo Tsarouchas, Bill Burr, Steve Byrne and Colin Jost—plus one surprise emerging Chicago comic he's handpicked from the festival to share the spotlight.

Amy Schumer

10 minutes with Amy Schumer

If you thought the roast of Charlie Sheen was nasty ... well, she's not done yet

By Ryan Smith | FOR REDEYE

From receiving death threats from overeager "Jackass" fans to auditioning for a movie role as a Hispanic stripper, stand-up comedian Amy Schumer has had an odd but rewarding year.

The 30-year-old New York native appeared in 2007 on NBC's "Last Comic Standing," but her national breakout performance came during last year's "Roast of Charlie Sheen" on Comedy Central.

Her cringe-worthy cracks about the death of "Jackass" star Ryan Dunn landed her in deep trouble with fans. Schumer briefly wondered if she should quit comedy, but instead, she said she's determined to "bring it harder."

As a result, she's been working steadily in stand-up and in film. Appearing this year in films with Steve Carell and Parker Posey, Schumer is stopping through Chicago for the Just for Laughs comedy festival before filming a special for Comedy Central called "Mostly Sex Stuff." She spoke to RedEye about her crazy year, why she loves HBO's "Girls" and, of course, sex.

It seems like most people know you because of the Charlie Sheen roast. Is that something that bothers you?

No, it doesn't. It's like ... what people think about you is so out of your control. I just want people to know my stand-up.

Did you really get death threats after the joke about Ryan Dunn and Steve-O?

Yeah I got some stuff on Twitter and Facebook that was like, "I hope you die," but my management got at least 18 legit angry emails where they mentioned wanting to kill me and a couple where they were detailed saying, "I'm going to kill her at this specific show," so my management wanted me to cancel some shows.

Was there any impulse to tone down your act?

No. I thought to myself, "Am I supposed to quit comedy?" Then I was like "[bleep] no" and wanted to come even harder after that. If anyone was going to be offended by that joke, I don't want them to be in the audience in the first place. I want smart people to enjoy what I'm talking about. If they don't like it, that's fine, too.

Who would you ideally roast? Does it get any better than Charlie Sheen?

I think whoever is in the hot seat at the moment. I guess like John Travolta right now with that stuff with him [bleeping] off with the massage therapists.

You recently posted on Twitter "[Bleep] girls is good, [bleep]." I'm assuming you were talking about the HBO show.

Yeah, I was talking about the show. I'm really digging that [bleep].

It makes sex seem so terrible.

Yeah, but that's a weird age for sex. In college, you're just drunk and [bleeping] and you don't know what your body is like and you're just hoping you're not grotesque and someone is going to want to have sex with you twice. And then when you're 23, you know some [bleep] and you're talking about it, but you still don't really know anything but that's the age where you're exploring and figuring it out. It's pretty awkward, kind of more awkward than virginity.

A new man

Grown-up Usher feels 'near a rebirth' on new album

Reuters

Almost 20 years have passed since R&B fans first took notice of Usher Raymond on his 1994 debut album, "Usher." At that time, he was just a baby-faced teenager singing about things he hadn't yet experienced.

Over the years, fans have watched Usher grow into a man and become one of the top-selling pop stars of the past two decades, documenting his personal highs and lows through his music.

But ask Usher, and he says his evolution has just begun.

Now a seasoned performer and 33-year-old father of two young boys, Usher takes himself to new places musically with his seventh studio album, "Looking 4 Myself," out Tuesday. Usher talks about "Looking 4 Myself" and his new direction.

You said this is your most artistic album to date. How was working on this project different?

It was damn near a rebirth. I felt open and creative because I didn't have anything in my mind. At some point, after making music for a long time, you have to find very new creative and innovative ways to do what you love. I've felt restricted in a lot over the last several years and maybe it's because I was holding myself back. Maybe I felt like I needed to conform to some specific standard. I got to the point where I said, "I gotta go with what I feel and hopefully people will follow me."

Will your old fans get it?

I always try to find a way for everybody to feel like they got something. On this album, dance or electronic music is not just your typical electronic experience—it's been Usherized. I put it all in there—soul, R&B, hip-hop, electronic and I make it work, because I believe it.

What's the overall vibe of the album?

I was a little held up in my emotions, and I used my music as a diary to log some of what I was dealing with. And then there are songs that are made to have fun. They're not deep.

Michael Jackson is one of your more obvious influences. Who are some artists you've been influenced by that may surprise people?

Picasso. I find inspiration in the fact that he found different ways to articulate himself. His artistic vision adjusted and he allowed himself to be in the moment and to be a part of what was going on around him in the art world.

Tell us some of your favorites from the album

Songs like "Euphoria" I feel really push the envelope. [Producers] Swedish House Mafia hadn't really done a lot of songs with vocal artists. I felt privileged to be able to work with them. I think a lot of people will relate to "Looking 4 Myself." People question, "Would I be better if I found someone to relate to, or do I just need to get to know myself better?"

"I Care for You"—that song is my heart. Saying "I care for you" is like saying "I love you" without saying those words. I think those can be dangerous words so I had to find a creative way to say it without saying it. "I love you" can be scary, it can be dangerous.

ALBUM REVIEW

Looking 4 Myself
Usher

By Kyle Kramer

FOR REDEYE

It's easy to overlook just how big of a pop star Usher is. He doesn't draw attention like Lady Gaga, put out music as often as Rihanna, or boast as rabid a fan base as his protégé Justin Bieber. But Usher is, in fact, a very big pop star, the kind with iconic hits that cut across generations and demographics.

Sure, you might think of Usher as the R&B artist behind "Burn," but there are plenty of people who like him better for dance songs such as "OMG." Usher has a lot of different people to please. He's that kind of pop star, and it shows on his latest album, "Looking 4 Myself."

The easy critique of "Looking 4 Myself" would jump to the plodding, MG-MT-style indie pop of its title track and point out that his wide appeal has left even Usher confused by his place in the pop canon—and that this expansive, genre-hopping mess of an album is the result. A more truthful take, though, is that this album acknowledges the name "Usher" stands for a range of ideas and revels in that fact.

While the eclecticism results in a few missteps, it mostly yields an excellent and diverse set of songs that work to pass as R&B while acknowledging the electronic imperatives of current pop radio. The album—somewhat surprisingly—comes together most brilliantly on the crystalline, Robyn-like synth-pop of the Swedish House Mafia-produced "Numb" and the gorgeous, tension-filled "Climax," a clear standout as one of the best songs of the year. Oh, and don't worry: There's still a fantastic strip-club-ready R&B anthem with Rick Ross ("Lemme See") and one intense, metaphor-heavy sex jam ("Dive").

"Looking 4 Myself" tries out a lot of different ideas—it's definitely an album made for the singles-driven iTunes era—and it's a credit to Usher's pop star pedigree that he mostly makes them work.

ALBUM REVIEW

By Emily Van Zandt

REDEYE SOUND BOARD

Can someone put me in touch with the person in charge of the "Sons of Anarchy" soundtrack? It seems Grace Potter and the Nocturnals had the gritty show's fifth season in mind when they were recording "The Lion The Beast The Beat," out Tuesday.

If the title track isn't featured in at least an FX promo spot, it's a real waste.

Potter's gravelly vocals throw out lines like, "I found the heart of a lion/ in the belly of the beast/ And I held it in my hand/ and I could feel, I could feel the beat" over pulsing tribal drums. Add in a few references to tearing up Nevada roads on an easy rider and plenty of fuzzy guitar riffs—it's just too perfect.

The rest of the album stays fairly firmly rooted in the vein of slow-burn rock. The Black

Keys' Dan Auerbach co-wrote several of the tracks here, including "Never Go Back," which has a definite blues feel layered with some fresh synth to keep it from getting too heavy.

Despite Potter's killer rock voice, listeners don't get a good sense of her range except on the ballad "Stars," which strips away to a piano-and-acoustic background that helps her shine.

"The Lion The Beast The Beat" should find favor with fans of the band's bluesy alt-rock sound. Those who came to know Potter from the band's 2010 rock single "Paris (Ooh La La)" should especially enjoy the foot-stomping "Runaway."

If there were any fears that the album would lean more folk-rock after Potter's collaboration on country star Kenny Chesney's "You and Tequila," the first few tracks take care of clearing that up. It's another album of solid, fan-pleasing rock tracks for the singer and crew.

Annoying Orange
7:30 p.m. Monday,
Cartoon Network

The Web sensation that claims more than 1 billion views on YouTube since October 2009 comes to Cartoon Network as a half-hour comedy.

And guess what? It's just as annoying as the title claims. But that doesn't mean it's not occasionally funny. I chuckled at least twice during the premiere.

The obnoxious piece of produce in the title, created by Dane Boedigheimer using the Syncro-Vox animation technique popularized by Conan O'Brien (human mouth on an inanimate object), irritates the heck out of his fruit friends and veggie enemies with bad puns, "poop deck" jokes and other kitchen/supermarket carnage.

In the premiere, Orange and friends are pirates taking on carts of veggies and eventually a group of creepy corn-on-the-cobs. You'll "ear" a lot of "Children of the Corn" references.

"Orange" you glad I didn't use puns throughout this review? Yes? Maybe you won't want to watch "Annoying Orange."

Blowout style

Chicagolicious
8 p.m. Monday, Style

Style network calls "Chicagolicious" a reality series, but much of the interaction between staff members at hair salon A.J.'s of Chicago feels scripted.

Or maybe more accurately, every cast member of this "Jerseylicious" spinoff seems to be angling for reality TV fame, and thus they come off as a bit false. (In owner A.J. Johnson's case, that may be a little unfair; he makes no secret that he wants to take his business to the national level.)

Johnson's hair and makeup specialists are, however, much more stylish than the "Jerseylicious" crew. The eccentric group catering to a high-profile clientele includes New Agey salon manager Niki, sales manager Q, flirtatious barber Howard, fashion-challenged MaCray and new stylist Austin. Veteran hair stylist Valincia and makeup artist Katrell up the drama with their clashes.

The series delivers all the bickering, gossip and voyeuristic BS fans of reality docu-series expect. Yet like most of those series, I find "Chicagolicious" favors style over substance.

Be a dog's best friend.

E. J. DIONNE

The Chicago Public Library welcomes journalist and political commentator E.J. Dionne for a discussion on his latest book, Our Divided Political Heart, in which he argues that the American tradition points not to radical self-reliance and self-interest, but to a balance between our love of individual freedom and our devotion to community. The free program takes place on Thursday, June 14 at 6 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050. Photo Credit: Paul Morigi.

RICHARD SANDOR

American businessman and economist Richard Sander discusses and signs his new book Good Derivatives: A Story of Financial and Environmental Innovation at the Chicago Public Library. The free program takes place on Monday, June 18 at 6 p.m., in the Reception Hall, Lower Level, at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. In Good Derivatives, Sander—who is an inventor of new market doctrines such as interest rate futures and emissions trading—explains how these good derivatives can address global problems. This program is presented as a You Are What You Read: Summer Reads for Adults event. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

ST. SUKIE DE LA CROIX

The Chicago Public Library welcomes journalist St. Sukie de la Croix, who will discuss and sign his book Chicago Whispers, an illuminating, colorful and vibrant record of lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgendered people who lived and loved in Chicago, from the city's beginnings in the 1670s as a fur-trading post to the end of the 1960s. The free program takes place on Wednesday, June 20 at 6 p.m., in the Cindy Pritzker Auditorium at the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 S. State St. Cosponsored by the Chicago Public Library's Pride Month Committee. For more information, visit chicagopubliclibrary.org, or call 312-747-4050.

Literary Events and Offerings

Every Saturday, Chicago Tribune reaches more than 1.3 million Chicagoland adults. Tribune readers are book enthusiasts with over 1 million of all Saturday readers visiting a book store in the past twelve months. Not only are Chicago Tribune readers more likely to purchase books, but they also are 86% more likely to spend $200+ than the Chicagoland market average. For advertising rates and deadlines, please call 312-527-8061.

Source: Gallup Poll of Media Usage and Consumer Behavior

To increase your reach, you can advertise your event online for seven days at a time on chicagotribune.com visited by over 4.1 million people each month.

Source: Omniture June 2009

Literary Events and Offerings appear every Saturday in the Chicago Tribune Books section and in RedEye.

ROMANCE PLANET

BY JENNIFER SHEPHERD | READ MORE AT LIPSTICKMYSTIC.COM

Gemini May 21-June 21
You should set some rules with your significant other. You're not thrilled that he spends every Saturday night playing poker with the boys. The moon says be honest.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21
You might feel like you're doing a lot of homework right now in your relationship. It probably doesn't feel particularly fun. Still, the moon is reminding you that it's worth the effort.

Cancer June 22-July 22
With Mercury still in your sign, you're more outgoing than you've been in ages. Somewhere along the way, flirtation might happen.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19
This isn't the best time to try a lot of weird or funky stuff. Don't start dating somebody who is your complete opposite just for the novelty factor. Mercury says chill out.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22
An intense moon is bringing pent-up frustration to the surface. You'll finally get up the nerve to tell that guy that it's not OK to just be "friends" when you're sleeping with each other just about every night. Tell it like it is, honey.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18
A romantic relationship might finally be coming together in a solid way, thanks to Venus. Still, you won't want to spend every waking moment with your partner. You'll want to spend time with outside friends.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22
With your perfectionist streak, other people's flaws are painfully obvious to you. This week, the moon will inspire you to point these out. But don't be surprised if your partner doesn't appreciate criticism about her hairstyle or her parents.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20
Someone might help you out when you least expect it. It's time to cash in on some positive karma. The moon is creating some personal miracles and you certainly deserve them.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23
A bouncy moon is inspiring you to travel somewhere. Grab your significant other and take a quick getaway. If you're single, find a friend who is open to having an adventure.

Aries March 21-April 19
With a funky moon making you nervous, you're wondering if you can trust your honey. Maybe she's secretly text messaging 10 other guys. Maybe he already has three wives. You're probably wrong.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21
You are going to freak everybody out as Mercury increases your natural psychic abilities. You'll know exactly what somebody is up to, even though he or she has worked hard at keeping a secret from you. Or you'll anticipate a problem at work slightly before it happens.

Taurus April 20-May 20
Don't be so quick to refuse those social invitations that have been coming your way. Pluto is telling you to get out of the house before you end up rotting in a pile of stale Cheetos. Even if you're feeling shy, you'll soon be in a partying mood.

Almost famous ... again

If you haven't heard of Mexican pop star Diego Boneta, you soon will

ABOUT LAST NIGHT

Luis Gomez

lgomez@tribune.com
@aboutluisgomez

Most people taking a 90-minute boat tour on a 90-degree afternoon in late May would wear shorts rather than pants for the excursion. Not Diego Boneta. The star of the upcoming "Rock of Ages" film wore jeans as he sat front row on the top deck of the boat, directly in front of the tour guide and directly under the sun.

"It is hot," Boneta said before the boat left the dock by the Michigan Avenue Bridge to take us on the Chicago Architecture Foundation River Cruise.

The 21-year-old actor and Mexican pop star suggested five tourist attractions we could visit but ultimately left the final decision up to me. Boneta began filming the MTV dramedy "Underemployed" in Chicago last month and said, for the most part, he didn't know where to go in the city.

Boneta was days away from a global press tour for "Rock of Ages." He called the tour his introduction to the U.S. media and clearly was looking to make a good first impression (he wore jeans because he felt they would be more appropriate).

Since competing on the Televisa children's reality show "Codigo F.A.M.A.," Boneta has appeared in multiple Spanish-language TV shows, including the Televisa teen soap opera "Rebelde," and was nominated for Latin Grammys. Still, the son of a Mexican father

“It was for sure the most humbling experience of my life”

—Diego Boneta, on starting his career over in America and U.S.-born mother mostly is unknown in this country. He initially struggled with auditions when he moved to L.A. in 2007 and said it was a far cry from the way things worked in Latin America, where he feels the offers keep coming once you get your big break on TV.

"It was for sure the most humbling experience of my life," Boneta said. "I had shot TV shows and been on a massive worldwide tour playing soccer stadiums [while opening for Mexican pop group RBD]. Nobody cared. I had to start over."

Just when it looked as if his plan to leave Mexico and conquer the U.S. market—which he said was due to Latin America having a limit as to how far one could go—had backfired, he got what he thought would be his big break, "Underemployed." He landed the role of wannabe rocker Drew Boley in the big-screen adaptation of the Broadway musical "Rock of Ages" after that.

"The director [Adam Shankman] told me he hired me after seeing my 'Glee' audition on YouTube," Boneta said. "I sang [the Rolling Stones'] 'You Can't Always Get What You Want.'"

Isis King is going from "America's Next Top Model" to American Apparel. The TV show's first transgender model also is becoming the fashion brand's first transgender model by appearing in a Pride Month ad campaign wearing a "Legalize gay!" T-shirt, online.com reports.

Neil Patrick Harris was back to doing what he does best Sunday: hosting an awards show. He welcomed the crowd to the theater gala, then cracked, "Or as we like to call it, 'Fifty Shades of Gay.'" When NPH wasn't singing, dancing or hanging upside-down Spider-Man style, the presenters handed out awards including best new play to "Clybourne Park," set in a fictional Chicago neighborhood, and a humanitarian prize for Hugh Jackman.

"This song is for Jack White. We saw him yesterday. A big thank you to him, but we can't tell you why. You'll find out."

—Radiohead frontman Thom Yorke, during the band's performance Friday at the Bonnaroo music fest, alluding to a collaboration between the rockers, according to thr.com

Not again, LiLo!

More bad news for Lindsay Lohan, though she's lucky it's not worse. LiLo rear-ended a dump truck in her Porsche on Friday in California, but she walked away without any major injuries. Meanwhile, LiLo's rep denied to people.com the dump truck driver's claim that one of her friends tried to bribe him not to call the police.
